

COE RELIES ON DEDICATED FACULTY MEMBERS

Distinguished and committed faculty members, who take valuable time out of their summer schedule to teach at the COE, continue to be integral to the success the Center of Excellence Scholarship/Internship Program enjoys. While many of their counterparts are enjoying their summer break, COE faculty are busy preparing a curriculum, traveling to Madison, and sharing their valuable knowledge and expertise with our COE students. These dedicated individuals include nationally recognized faculty from participating land grant institutions, experienced poultry industry representatives, and professionals from other universities and related agencies. Collectively, they serve as the backbone of the COE and provide students with the education they need to become valuable and productive members of the poultry industry.

A strong commitment by these faculty members, who are dedicated not only to the poultry industry but to the students they educate, is the reason the poultry industry finds the COE so valuable. Each year, leading faculty members commit themselves to educating the next generation of poultry industry leaders, making sure COE students are well-prepared to face the future challenges the poultry industry will present. The enthusiasm they bring to their work is evident and serves to generate excitement about future employment opportunities among COE students. In 2019, the COE program continued its outstanding student-to-faculty ratio!

Special thanks go to the following 2019 COE faculty members and guest speakers who dedicated their time and shared their expertise with COE students; without them, the COE would not be the success it is today. If you know any of these faculty or industry members, please acknowledge their dedication to the future of the poultry industry. (Course Coordinators)
